

Jarabacoa Investment

Jarabacoa is a beautiful and small place located directly in the mountains of the country of the Dominican Republic. These are considered as the Caribbean Alps and are 600 meters above sea level, so the temperatures there are very pleasant.

His name is due to the Taino Indians who lived there before the arrival of the Spaniards; they called it that, whose name means "land of water sources."

They come here in search of cool temperatures, rivers and green landscapes flanked by dense pine forests and coffee producing mountains.

There you have the possibility to play golf in a 9-hole course. A local legend states that Robert T. Jones helped design the golf course on a napkin.

In that place you can also see 2 beautiful waterfalls (The jump Baiguata and Jimenoa jump).

You can also enjoy the possibilities of horse riding and adventure vacations.
